

Primary Health Care Services for Children and Youth in Canada: Access, Quality and Structure

Appendix to module page 5.1.2: Current Newborn Vision Screening Practices across Canada, by Province and Territory, as of January 2013

How we gathered these data:

We searched ministry of health and official non-governmental websites at the national and provincial level to explore the availability of universal screening programs and optometric coverage for children, and to understand which providers are funded to do vision screening across provinces and territories in Canada.
